A Novel Device for Separating Flour from the Bran—Claimed to be an Invention that is Working to be Honored with the Cotton Gold.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 14.—The son of Superintendent Smith of the Atlantic Flour Mills located some months ago, while watching the process of bolting flour, at the activity of the purifiers in connection with the purifying machines attracted the bran and caused it to cling to the belts in large quantities. Thus was suggested the machine that was patented last month under the name of the "Electric Middling Purifier" and which his friends say is an invention equal in importance to that of the cotton gin, and the first application of frictional electricity to any practical use.
